

Are you already picturing yourself walking through sunny Spanish streets, eating warm churros, and taking photos in pretty old town squares?

Planning a trip to Spain from India feels exciting from the very first step. Spain gives you art, beaches, food, football culture, shopping streets, castles, gardens, and peaceful cafés, all in one holiday.

For Indian travellers, the key is simple planning. Once your visa, route, budget, packing, and basic Spanish phrases are sorted, the whole trip starts to feel much easier.

Spain is also a lovely place for first-time European travel because many cities are well-connected. You can land in Madrid or Barcelona, take trains to other cities, enjoy local food, and plan a mix of sightseeing and relaxed free time.

Start With a Clear Spain Travel Plan

A good Spain trip starts with one basic question: what kind of holiday do you want? Some people want museums and history. Some want beaches and shopping. Others want old towns, food, music, and slow evenings.

For most Indian travellers, 8 to 12 days is a comfortable length for a first holiday in Spain. It gives you enough time to visit two or three cities without rushing from one hotel to another every day.

Choose Your Main Cities First

Madrid is a good starting point if you love museums, royal buildings, parks, food markets, and day trips. It sits in the centre of Spain, so it is easy to connect to other parts of the country.

Barcelona is perfect for architecture, beach walks, local markets, and lively streets. It works well at the start or end of your holiday.

Seville, Granada, Cordoba, Valencia, and Malaga are also lovely choices. These cities bring together old streets, colourful buildings, local food, gardens, and relaxed evenings.

A simple first-time Spain plan can look like this:

1. Madrid for 3 days
2. Seville or Granada for 2 to 3 days
3. Barcelona or Valencia for 3 days

This kind of route gives you a nice mix of culture, food, history, and city life.

Visa Planning for Spain From India

Indian passport holders need a Schengen visa for a short Spain holiday. This visa is used for short tourist stays of up to 90 days within 180 days.

Spain should be your main destination if you are applying through Spain. That means you should spend the highest number of days in Spain, or enter Spain first if your days are equal across Schengen countries.

Keep Your Visa File Simple and Clear

You can usually submit your Schengen visa application between 6 months and 15 days before your travel date. A smart plan is to prepare your papers early, so you have enough time to choose appointments and arrange bookings.

Your visa file usually includes:

- Passport
- Visa application form
- Recent photos
- Flight booking plan
- Hotel bookings
- Day-wise travel plan
- Travel insurance
- Bank statements
- Employment, business, or student papers
- Income proof, where needed
- Cover letter

Your passport should be valid for at least three months after your planned exit from the Schengen area. It should also be issued within the last 10 years.

Travel insurance is also an important part of the file. It should cover medical care, hospital care, and repatriation, with at least €30,000 coverage across the Schengen area.

Best Time to Visit Spain From India

Spain has different moods across the year, so your best month depends on your travel style. Some months are ideal for city walks, some are better for beaches, and some are perfect for museums, cafés, and cultural plans.

Spring and autumn are very popular with Indian travellers because the weather feels pleasant for walking. Summer is nice for beaches and late evenings. Winter is lovely for museums, food, lights, and relaxed city breaks.

Pick the Season That Matches Your Trip

April to June is a beautiful time for city travel. You can walk around Madrid, Barcelona, Seville, Cordoba, and Valencia with plenty of daylight.

September to November is also a nice period for sightseeing, food walks, and day trips. The weather often feels comfortable, and outdoor cafés feel inviting.

June to August works well for travellers who want beaches, islands, and summer energy. If you are visiting cities during these months, plan outdoor sightseeing in the morning and keep afternoons for museums, shopping, lunch, or rest.

December to February is a good match for travellers who enjoy quiet museums, warm cafés, festive streets, and cultural attractions.

Flights and Travel Within Spain

Most trips from India to Spain begin with a flight into Madrid or Barcelona. These two cities are popular entry points because they connect well with other Spanish regions.

Once you reach Spain, trains, buses, metro systems, and short flights make city-to-city travel simple. High-speed trains are especially useful for routes like Madrid to Barcelona, Madrid to Seville, Madrid to Valencia, and Madrid to Mal  aga.

Use Trains for a Comfortable Route

Train travel is one of the easiest ways to move around Spain. Stations are often close to city centres, seats are comfortable, and travel times between major cities are short.

Madrid to Seville can take around two and a half hours by high-speed train. Madrid to Barcelona and Madrid to Valencia can also be done in around three hours or less, depending on the service.

For shorter city travel, metro systems and buses work well. In cities like Madrid and Barcelona, public transport is easy to use once you understand the route map.

Keep your tickets saved on your phone and also take screenshots. This helps when you are moving between stations, hotels, and tourist spots.

How Much Money to Plan for a Spain Trip

Spain can fit different budgets. You can enjoy simple cafés, local transport, free walks, and public parks. You can also add paid museums, guided tours, fine dining, shopping, and special day trips.

The euro is used in Spain, so plan your budget in euros and then convert it into Indian rupees while preparing.

Expense Type	Basic Daily Range	Comfort Daily Range
Meals	€25–€40	€45–€80
Local transport	€5–€15	€15–€30
Attractions	€10–€30	€30–€60
Snacks and coffee	€8–€20	€20–€40

These are planning ranges only. Your actual cost depends on the city, season, hotel area, food choices, and travel style.

Keep one international card, some cash, and a small daily spend note. Cards are widely used in cities, while cash is useful for small cafés, local shops, tips, and quick snacks.

Food and Daily Life in Spain

Food is a big part of the Spain travel feeling. You can try tapas, rice dishes, potato dishes, fresh bread, olives, cheese, salads, churros, seafood, soups, desserts, and local drinks.

Indian travellers often enjoy the relaxed food culture. Meals are not only about eating; they are also about sitting, talking, watching the street, and enjoying the mood of the place.

Understand Spanish Meal Timings

Breakfast is usually light. Lunch is often the main meal of the day. Dinner is usually later than Indian dinner time, often around 9 pm or later in many places.

Vegetarian travellers can look for dishes with potatoes, peppers, mushrooms, rice, chickpeas, tomatoes, cheese, eggs, olives, and bread. Learn a few food words before you go so ordering feels easier.

Some useful Spanish words include:

- Hola: Hello
- Gracias: Thank you
- Por favor: Please
- Tren: Train
- Autobús: Bus
- Aeropuerto: Airport
- Restaurante: Restaurant
- Menú: Set meal
- Entrada: Ticket
- Efectivo: Cash
- Tarjeta de crédito: Credit card
- Vegetariano: Vegetarian

Before your trip, you can hire a spanish tutor for a few short travel-focused lessons. Practice greetings, food orders, directions, shopping phrases, and train station questions. Even a few basic lines can make your day feel smoother.

Best Places to Add to Your Spain Itinerary

Spain has many beautiful places, so your first trip should feel focused. Instead of trying to cover too many cities, choose a route that gives you time to enjoy each place properly.

A strong Spain itinerary usually has a mix of big cities, old towns, local food, and short day trips.

Madrid, Barcelona, and Andalusia

Madrid is ideal for art, royal buildings, parks, food markets, and nearby historic towns. You can visit museums, walk through plazas, enjoy local snacks, and take a day trip to Toledo or Segovia.

Barcelona is known for creative buildings, beach walks, markets, viewpoints, and colourful neighbourhoods. It is a good city for travellers who like photos, cafés, shopping, and the sea.

Andalusia gives you Seville, Granada, Cordoba, and Malaga. This region feels warm, artistic, and full of charm. You can enjoy palaces, gardens, courtyards, old lanes, music, and long, relaxed meals.

Valencia is another lovely option. It gives you beaches, parks, modern buildings, old streets, and tasty local food. It also fits well between Madrid and Barcelona.

Language Tips for Indian Travellers

You can travel in Spain with English in major tourist areas, hotels, airports, and large restaurants. Still, Spanish phrases make small daily moments warmer.

Local people often appreciate simple words like hello, please, and thank you. It shows respect and makes basic tasks easier.

Practice Travel Spanish Before You Leave

You do not need to learn full Spanish for a holiday. Focus only on the words and sentences you will use daily.

Start with:

- Asking for directions
- Ordering vegetarian food
- Buying tickets
- Checking hotel details
- Asking the price
- Asking for water
- Finding a taxi, bus, or train
- Saying thank you politely

A week or two before departure, you can hire a Spanish tutor to practice real travel situations. Ask them to help with airport questions, restaurant orders, shopping talk, and simple emergency phrases.

This small step can make you feel more confident from the first day in Spain.

Packing for Spain From India

Packing for Spain is mainly about comfort. You will walk a lot, use public transport, visit museums, sit in cafés, and move through old streets.

Comfortable shoes matter more than extra outfits. Many old town areas have stone streets, so soft walking shoes are a smart choice.

Keep Your Bag Light and Practical

Pack clothes that can be mixed and repeated. Carry breathable tops, trousers, one smart outfit for dinner, a light jacket, sleepwear, socks, and comfortable shoes.

Also carry:

- Universal travel adapter
- Phone charger
- Portable charger
- Sunglasses
- Sunscreen
- Small umbrella
- Basic medicines
- Prescription papers for medicines
- Travel-size toiletries
- Passport copies
- Visa and insurance copies
- Hotel and ticket screenshots

For Indian comfort, you can also pack tea sachets, dry snacks, ready-to-eat light bites, and a reusable water bottle. These small things help during train rides and long sightseeing days.

Digital Entry and Airport Readiness

Spain is part of the Schengen area, so your passport and visa will be checked when you enter. The Entry/Exit System is now used for short-stay non-EU travellers at external borders of participating European countries.

This system records entry and exit details digitally. It may include passport information, a facial photo, fingerprints, and travel dates.

Keep Your Documents Easy to Reach

At the airport, keep your passport, visa, return ticket, hotel booking, insurance, and day-wise plan ready. Answer questions in a simple and clear way.

Store all important files on your phone. Also, keep printed copies in your cabin bag. Printed papers are useful when your phone battery is low, or the internet is slow.

Your hotel address, local transport route, first-day plan, and emergency contacts should be easy to find. A little preparation makes arrival day feel calm.

Simple Spain Trip Checklist

Planning a trip to Spain from India becomes easier when you break it into small steps. Think of it as a checklist rather than one big task. Once the main items are ready, you can focus on the fun parts like food, clothes, photos, day trips, and shopping.

Quick Travel Checklist

Before you go, keep these items ready:

1. Valid passport
